California is a state of tremendous diversity and high ideals. Historically being the destination for immigrants in search of the “California dream”, today the “Golden State” has the largest population and the strongest economy in the country. Global Climate Change and the USA

(8. und 9. Klasse oder ab 10. Klasse)

Has Obama's second term brought a true environmental policy change, or is the U.S., on the brink of becoming a major oil producer, returning to its old ways?

The Black Civil Rights Movement

Three major periods of immigration are reviewed: the mid-1800s, the turn of the century, and contemporary immigration. We will also examine the key questions shaping the immigrant experience: How and why do people choose to leave their homes? Is the U.S. really a "melting pot" where immigrants lose their cultural heritage? And how has the government responded to immigration?

Immigration in America II: Current Issues

The focus of this lecture will be on the present-day struggle for the American Dream, both from an illegal immigrant's perspective and from a middle class American standpoint. So funktioniert es:

1. Ein/e Vertreter/in der Gruppe (das darf, muss aber kein/e Lehrer/in sein) kontaktiert uns und wir beraten ihn/sie gerne im Vorfeld zu unseren Vorträgen.
2. Die Gruppe meldet sich mit einigen Terminvorschlägen verbindlich an. Wir suchen eine/n passende/n Referenten/in und vermitteln. Dies kann einige Tage in Anspruch nehmen.

3. Soll die Präsentation bei Ihnen stattfinden, stellen Sie bitte sicher, dass Sie vor Ort über PC/Laptop (mit Powerpointsoftware), Beamer, Lautsprecher und Internetzugang verfügen. Unsere Referenten/innen bringen eine Powerpointpräsentation und häufig auch Videos auf USB-Stick mit. Am d.a.i. kümmern dagegen wir uns um die für die Vorträge nötige Technik.
4. Beim Vortrag selbst können Sie den Unkostenbeitrag entweder gleich bar begleichen, oder wir schicken Ihnen hinterher eine Rechnung an die Schule – bitte lassen Sie uns dazu dann die exakte Anzahl tatsächlich anwesender Schüler/innen wissen, damit wir den korrekten Rechnungsbetrag ermitteln können.
5. Geben Sie uns nach dem Vortrag eine Rückmeldung. Unsere Präsentationsreihe wird ständig weiterentwickelt. Mit Ihrem Feedback helfen Sie uns, das Angebot noch besser auf Ihre Wünsche und Bedürfnisse zuzuschneiden.
